HEFCE, HESES and Non-Completion Definition Report

HEFCE came into have talks about the completion of work, they ruled out that not a lot of students do this and in doing so the failing has cost the university £250,000 last year!

“The correct calculation of the non-completion estimate is vital for HESES. Students that are defined as non-completions do not count towards our funding volume measure. It is very important that these students are correctly identified. Failure to do this correctly has recently caused significant problems for a number of HEIs, including claw back of funding”.

Any attempt of students of students handing in work before the marking period will lead to marks de-ducted but HEFCE will still take into all accounts in order for that student to gain a mark.

Students must contact their lecture if their work has been handed in late in order for them to arrange a meeting and discuss the outcome.

Achievement Records

Looking at way to improve the Joint Honours Programs and how they work and the way the modules are paired in order to get a good generic of things.

E-vision

Some lectures are finding it hard to mark work via a computer, as they still have to print it out in order to mark.
